POETRY.

WE PARTED IN SILENCE.

We parted in silence--we parted at night,
On the banks of that lonely river,
Where the fragrant lilies their bosoms unite--
We met and we parted forever.
The night birds sang and the stars above
Told us a touching story,
Of friends long part to the kingdom of love
Where the soul wears its mantle of glory.
We parted in silence--our cheeks were wet
With the tears that were past controlling,
And we vowed we would never, no, never forget.
And that you at that time was weeping,
But the lips that were parted in parting
Are as cold as that lonely river,
And the sparkling eye--the spirit's shrine--
Has shrouded its fires forever.
And now on the midnight sky I look,
Till my heart grows full to weeping,
Each star to me is a sealed book--
Some tale of that loved one's keeping.
We parted in silence--we parted in parting
On the banks of that lonely river,
But the cold and gloom of its by-gone years,
Will hang o'er its waters forever.

RULES FOR THE YOUNG.--If you wish to cultivate your mind and succeed in the pursuit of knowledge, observe carefully the following rules:

1. Take care of leisure moments as you would of gold.
2. Do not spend more time than necessary in sleep.
3. Withdraw from all idle and silly companions.
4. Have always some good reading on hand.
5. Read no novels, but history, biography, and works of science.
6. Always think, always observe, always seek to learn.
7. Think of the pleasure of knowing and of the disgrace of ignorance.
8. Take your motto, "what has been done can be done."
9. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, try, again."

He is only a Mechanic.

How frequently is the remark made by aristocratic upstarts, who have nothing to recommend them save their money and impudence, when the name of an honest, intelligent mechanic happens to be mentioned in their presence. They consider it degrading to associate with those who do not, like themselves, possess wealth, even though their wealth was obtained by the most rascally means. Nothing is so disgusting to well-bred, well-informed people as to hear an ignorant, conceited, puffed up, long-haired, brainless, impudent dandy, talk about mechanics, as if they were no better than brutes.

No true lady or gentleman would be guilty of such rudeness. It is only spoiled beauty--the worthless, contemptible soap-bubble--who would do so. Show us the man or the woman who would consider it a disgrace to associate with honest, well-informed mechanics, and we will show you a poor, ignorant, worthless, conceited creature--useless to himself and the world, and a disgrace and incumbrance to his friends.

ON SMOKING.--Of the three modes of using tobacco, smoking is that which seems to have insinuated itself most extensively among the youth of our community. Tobacco, employed in this way being drawn in with the vital breath, conveys its poisonous influence into every part of the lungs. There the noxious fluid is entangled in the minute spongy alveoli and has time to exert its pernicious influence on the blood, not in vivifying it but in vitiating it. The blood imbues the stimulant narcotic principle, and circulates it through the whole system. It produces, in consequence, a febrile action in those of delicate habits. Where there is any tendency to phthisis, and the tuberculous matter, and thus sow the seeds of consumption. This practice impairs the natural taste and relish for food, lessens the appetite and weakens the power of the stomach. As to pleasure produced by it, it is, I believe, a well-known fact, that a person smoking in the dark is very often unable to determine whether his cigar is lighted or not--Dr. J. C. Warren.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Hunting a Testimonial.

BY JOHN JONES, JR.

"Doctor," said a man with a thin, sallow countenance, pale lips, and leaden eyes, coming up to the counter of a drug store in Baltimore, some years ago--"Doctor, I've been reading your advertisement about the 'Universal Restorer' and Balm of life, and if that Mr. John Johnson's testimony is to be relied on, it ought to suit my case, for, in describing his own sufferings, he has exactly described mine. But I've spent so much money on medicine to no purpose, that I'm tired of being humbugged, so if you will just tell me where I can find this Mr. Johnson, I'll give him a call. I'd like to know if he's a real flesh and blood man."

"You don't mean to insinuate that I'd forge a testimonial?" replied the man of medicine, with some slight show of indignation.
"Oh, no. I don't insinuate anything at all, doctor," answered the pale looking man. "But I'd like to see this Mr. Johnson, and have a talk with him."

"You can do that, if you'll take the trouble to call on him," said the doctor, in an off-hand way.
"Where can I find him?" asked the man.
"He lives a little way out of town, about three miles, on the Frederick turnpike!"

"Ah! so far!"
"Yes, Go out till you come to the three mile stone; then keep on the first road turning off the right, along which you will go about a quarter of a mile, when you will see a brick-house. Mr. Johnson lives there."

"The thin sallow-faced man bowed and retired. As he left the store, the doctor gave a low chuckle, and then said aloud--
"I guess he won't try to find this Mr. Johnson."

But he was mistaken. Three hours afterwards the sick man entered the shop, and sinking upon a chair, with an expression of weariness, said in a fretful tone--
"Well, doctor, I've been off where you said, but no Mr. John Johnson lives there."

"Mr. Johnson lives at the place to which I directed you," said the doctor, positively.
"But the man shook his head.
"You went out the Frederick road to the three mile stone!"

"Yes."
"And turned off on the first road on the left hand side!"

"You told me the right hand side," said the man.
"Oh! there's the mistake," replied the doctor, with an air of a man who had just discovered a very material error, by which an important result was affected. "I told you to turn off to the left."

"I'm sure you said the right," persisted the man.
"Impossible!" returned the doctor, in a most confident tone of voice. "How could I have said the right hand side, when I knew it was the left? I know Mr. Johnson as well as I know my own brother, and have been at his house hundreds of times."

"I'm almost sure you said the right!" persisted the man.
"Ah, no! you misunderstood me," most positively answered the doctor.
"Well, I must only try it again," said the man languidly. "But I shall defer the walk until to-morrow, for I'm completely worn down."

"You'd better try a bottle of the Restorer," said the doctor, with a benevolent smile. "I know that it will just suit your case. Mr. Johnson looked worse than you do, when he commenced taking it, and three bottles made a well man of him."

"And the doctor held up a bottle of the Restorer, with his name label, tapping gently before the sick man's eyes; adding, as he did so--
"It's only fifty cents."

"I've been humbugged too often!" replied the suspicious patron of patent medicine vendors. "No! I'll see Mr. Johnson first!"

"Well, did you see Mr. Johnson?" asked the doctor, with a pleasant smile and confident air, as the testimonial hunter entered his shop on the next day, about noon.
"No, I did not," was replied, a little impatiently.
"Ah! how comes that? Did you follow the directions I gave?"

"Yes, to the very letter."
"Then you must have found Mr. Johnson!"

nearly dead now with fatigue; I'll try once more to find this man, and if I don't turn him up, I'll let the matter drop. I don't believe your medicine will do me much good any how."

"I'm sure it will help you," replied the doctor. "I can tell by your very countenance that it is what you want. Hundreds, afflicted as you are, have been restored to health. You'd better take a bottle."

"I want to see this Mr. Johnson first," persisted the sick man.
"Get a carriage, then. This walking in the hot sun is too much for you."

"Can't afford to ride in carriages. Have spent all my money in doctor's stuffs. Oh dear! well! You say this man lives just beyond the three mile stone, at the first road leading to the left?"

"Yes."
"Two poplars stand at the gate?"

"I ought to find that," said the man.
"You can find it if you try," returned the doctor.

The man started off again.
"Plague on the persevering fellow!" muttered the man of drugs, as soon as the invalid retired. "I wish I had sent him six miles instead of three."

The day wore on, but the Testimonial Hunter did not re-appear. Early on the next morning, however, his pale, thin face, and emaciated form were visible in the shop of the quack doctor.

"Ah! good morning! good morning!" cried the latter, with one of his most assured and pleasant smiles in the world. "You found Mr. Johnson, of course?"

"Confound you and Mr. Johnson too!" No! replied the invalid, impatiently. "The doctor was a man of great self-control, and, of course, did not in the least become offended."

"Strange!" said he seriously. "You surely didn't follow my directions!"

"Surely did. The first gate on the left-hand side. But your two tall poplars were no tall elm."

"There it is again!" and the doctor, in the fullness of his surprise, actually let a small package that he held in his hand, fall upon the counter. "I told you poplars distinctly. The elm tree gate is at least a quarter of a mile this side. But to settle the matter at once," and the doctor, speaking like a man who was about doing a desperate thing, turned to his shelves, and took therefrom a bottle of the Universal Restorer--here's the medicine. I know it will cure you. Take a bottle. It shall cost you nothing."

"I don't want your stuff for nothing. But half dollar won't kill me!"

So he drew a coin from his pocket, laid it on the counter, and taking the medicine, went slowly away.

"Rather a bad customer, that," said the doctor to himself, with a chuckle; as he slipped the money in his drawer. "But I'll take good care to send the next one like him a little further on his fool's errand. He'd much better have taken my word for it in the beginning."

The sick man never came back for a second bottle of the Restorer. Whether the first bottle killed or cured him, is to the chronicler, unknown.

Affecting Incident.

I recollect one member of Congress, who was always rallying me about our Congressional Temperance Society.

"Briggs," he used to say, "I'm going to join your Temperance Society as soon as my demijon is empty. But just before it became empty he always filled it again. At one time towards the close of the session, he said to me: 'I am going to sign the pledge when I get home--I am in earnest,' continued he, 'my demijon is nearly empty, and I am not going to fill it again.' He spoke with such an air of seriousness as I had not before observed, and it impressed me; so I asked him what it meant--what had changed his feelings."

"Why," said he, "I had a short time since a visit from my brother, who stated to me a fact that more deeply impressed and affected me, than any thing I recollect to have heard upon the subject in any temperance speech I ever heard or read."

In my neighborhood is a gentleman of my acquaintance. Well educated, who once had some property, but is now reduced--poor! He has a beautiful and lovely wife a lady of cultivation and a most charming daughter.

This gentleman had become decidedly intemperate in his habits, and had fully alarmed his friends in regard to him. At one time when a number of his former associates were together, they counselled as to what could be done for him. Finally one of them said to him, 'why don't you send your daughter away to a certain distinguished school which he had named.'

And now for the first time the truth poured into his mind, and he saw his condition, and sat down bawled in tears.

"Now," said he, "gentlemen you must go and communicate these facts to my wife--poor woman! I know she will be glad to hear it, but I cannot tell her."

Two of them started for that purpose. The lady met them at the door, pale and trembling with emotion.

"What," she inquired, "is the matter? They bid her dismiss her fears, assuring her they had come to bring her tidings of her husband--but good tidings such as she would be glad to hear."

"Your husband has signed the temperance pledge--yes, signed in good faith. The joyous news nearly overcame her--she trembled with excitement--wept freely, and clasping her hands devotionally, she looked up to heaven, and thanked God for the happy change. 'Now,' said she, 'I have a husband as he once was, in the days of our early love.'

"But this was not what moved me," said the gentleman. "There was in the same vicinity another gentleman--a generous noble soul--married young--married well--into a charming family, and the flower of it. His wine drinking habits had aroused the fears of his friends and one said to another, let us sign the pledge. 'I will if you will,' said one to another, till all had agreed to it, and the thing was done."

This gentleman thought it rather a small business, and felt a little sensitive about revealing to his wife what he had done. But on returning home, he said to her:

"Mary, my dear, I have done what I fear will displease you."
"Well what is it?"

"Why! I have signed the temperance pledge."
"Have you?"

"Yes! I have certainly." Watching his manners as he replied, and reading his sincerity, she entwined her arms around his neck, laid her head upon his bosom, and burst into tears. Her husband was affected deeply by this conduct of his wife, and said:

"Mary don't weep. I did not know it would afflict you so, or I would not have done it--I will go and take my name off immediately."

"Take your name off!" said she; no, not let it be there. I shall now have no more solicitude in reference to your becoming a drunkard. I shall no more steep my pillow in tears."

Now for the first time truth shone upon his mind, and he elided to his bosom his young and beautiful wife, and wept with her. "Now, I can't stand these facts and I am going to sign the pledge."--Speech of Gov. Briggs at Lowell.

COMING TO LIFE--AN ARKANSAS BEAR STORY.

BY NED BUNTLINE.

Who hasn't heard of old Pete Reeves, the great bear hunter and the biggest story teller I beg his ghostly pardon, for Pete has gone up to the happy hunting grounds on the other side of the Mississippi.

Pete used to tell the following bear story, and up to the time of his death was ever ready to swear by a sack of bibles, as high as a cord of wood that it was true. He'd even bet whisky on it, and yet he wouldn't much of a betting man. Pete used to tell it in this way:

I was down on Graves' Bayou in a dig with my old dog Bowler; had my old smooth bore long gun. Just as I got along where Graves' cause is so thick that a rattlesnake can't crawl without wearing off half his rattles, I smelt a bar, and so did Bowler. I looked and there was a she, that ever you dig one, he and two year old steers, sure as I'm white. I let drive and the old he tumbled over, and the she broke through the cane like a quarter horse that's flew the track. I paddled in the dug out and gave the old he a dig with my knife, and then I tied the bow's bowline to it to keep it from drifting off, for he'd fell close to the water, and tied old Bowler in tother end to watch my property, and keep him from minchin', for that dog was powerful fond of bar meat, he was.

Then I put off after the she. The cussed critter led me a tremendous chase--mor'n two mile, and that's some journey in a cane brake--if you don't believe me, try it on. Then the beast had clumb a tree about seventy feet high, more or less, and there wasn't a limb between the ground and the hole she went in at. I never was muth at climbing, so I gin up the she and started back to skin the old he and go home.

When I got to what I left the dug bit, it wasn't there! I heard old Bowler barkin' and yelpin' and I started on the trail of his noise, and came to a big tree, and there I seed a sight enough to make a preacher fuss. That infernal he bar had come to life, and dragged the dug out and all purty nigh a quarter of a mile through the cane brake to a big old water oak or some such tree, clumb up it forty feet to his hole, towing the dug out up and had gone down into the hole the length of the bowline, and had got the bow of the dug out into the hole. The starn stid straight out, and in it sat Bowler, yelpin like a wolf. Blame my skin if it isn't as true as I'm white. I knowed I couldn't kill that bar no more, so I took good aim and shot away the line that held the dug out and it came down and landed old Bowler for life. I dragged the dug out down to the bayou, gin in and put for home, and I have never hunted bar in Graves' land since.

Thus endeth Peter Reeves' bear story [Memphis Express.

A REBUFF.--A worthy man in this great metropolis recently visited a "medium," to witness the wonders of spiritual rappings. He had lived twelve years with a notorious shrew, who at last died, soon after which he married a young woman of comely person and pleasant disposition. On inquiring if any spirits were present, he was answered by the raps in the affirmative. "Who?" "The spirit of Melinda, your deceased wife." "Ah!" exclaimed he with a gesture of alarm; but recovering himself, he kindly inquired, "are you satisfied with your condition? Are you happy?" "Perfectly so," replied the spirit. "So am I!" gruffly exclaimed this ungallant inquirer, as he turned upon his heels and walked off.

Jack Whaley's Breaches.--Jack Whaley's wife one day chanced to find an elegant piece of white leather on the road, and she brought it home with her in great delight to mend Jack's small clothes which she did very neatly. Jack set off the next day, little suspecting what was in store for him; but when he had trotted about five miles--it was in the month of July--he began to feel mighty uneasy in the saddle, a feeling that continued to increase at every moment, till at last he said, "It was like taking a canter on a bee hive in swarming time, and well it might, for the piece of leather was no other than a blister that the apothecary's boy had dropped that morning on the road."

Two merchants were standing in Wall street, discoursing on bankruptcy, when one of them perceived a real live Yankee lumbering down the street with a knife and stick in his hand.
"Now for some sport," ejaculated the merchant. "We'll ask his opinion on the subject of bankruptcy, or rather his ideas. He now halted the Yankee with 'Holloa, friend, can you tell us the meaning of bankruptcy?'"
"Well, I reckon I kin--and skin me if I don't."
"Please explain."

"Well, you just lend me a five for about three minutes."
"Here it is, friend--now proceed."

"Well, now, I owe Zeke Smith fifty cents; Sam Brown, the tailor, five dollars for this ere coat, and you five."

"Well," said the merchant, "now give me my five."

"Oh! git out! I'm a bankrupt, and you come in for your share with the rest," and he left the astonished merchants.

Fisk's Patent Air-Tight

METALLIC BURIAL CASES.

THE subscriber would call the attention of the public to the above Cases, as being greatly superior, in every respect to the common wooden coffins now in use. For durability, elegance, style of finish, &c., they stand unrivaled, being light and portable, and where ever they have been introduced, they have obtained decided preference over every other coffin. Their neatness and their great convenience render them very desirable, while their cost being but little, if any, above the common wooden coffin, places them within the reach of all. I have a good supply of them on hand, and shall continue to keep them. I also have on hand Silver and Plated Name Plates of every variety.
FINE NEW HEARSE.
And will always be ready to attend Funerals in the city or country at all hours.

THE SPLENDID JACK.

WILL stand the ensuing season (commencing the 1st of March) at my farm, six miles south of Richmond, on the Elliott's Ford road, and will be let to Jennets exclusively at the price of $50 for a Jack colt and $30 for a Jennet. The money to be due as soon as the colt is foaled, or the Jennet is traded off before foaling; the highest price will be demanded.
Good pasturage furnished gratis, and grain fed if desired upon reasonable terms. The greatest care will be taken of Jennets, but I will not be responsible for miscarriages.
Persons sending Jennets from abroad are requested to brand them, and, if more convenient to such, they may leave them at my farm one mile north of Richmond.

Pedigree.

JIM FORTER is six years old this spring, and formerly belonged to John & Wm. H. Spencer, of Clarke county, and is 16 hands high, well formed, and one of the best breeders in the State. He was sired by Leviathan, he was old imported Mammoth, Leviathan's dam was Dolly Madison, the finest Jennet of her day, she by Mountain Leader--Jim Porter's dam was Black Maria, she old imported Warrior, her dam by the imported Ulysses. It will thus be seen that Jim Forter's sire and dam were from the best stock ever imported into the United States.

THE GREAT CASTILLIAN.

HIS splendid Jack, the largest and finest annual of his species ever imported to the United States is now in fine health and condition, and will make his second season in Kentucky at the stables of Jacob Embury, in the county of Fayette, immediately on the Turnpike road leading from Lexington to Richmond, 11 miles from the former place and will serve Jennets at $20 the season, or $100 to insure a Jack colt and $30 to insure a Jennet colt; the money to be paid as soon as the colt stands upon his feet, or the Jennet is parted with. Good blue grass pasturage furnished gratis, and they will be grain fed if desired on reasonable terms. All proper attention will be paid to Jennets and to prevent accidents or escapes, but no responsibility should either incur.

JACOB EMBURY.
Agent for Col. J. A. Easley, Jr.
Fayette co., March 25,

The Great Castilian, as before remarked, is the largest and universally admitted to be the finest Jack that has ever been imported into the United States. He was selected in Spain as the finest Jack in the Kingdom, and landed in this country in May, 1851. He is five years old, of a beautiful black color, 16 1/2 hands high, of remarkably fine form, bone and substance, and combines in him more of the fine qualities of a successful breeder than any animal of his class. Since his arrival in the United States, he has been visited and examined by a large number of persons interested in this description of stock, and their almost unanimous judgement confirms what is here said. The Great Castilian needs no enlarged encomium, he speaks for himself, and breeders will, of course, take occasion to examine him, which they are invited to do.

J. A. EASLEY, Jr.
The Great Castilian will be exhibited at Lexington on County Court day in April, and at no other place.

THE SOUTHERN CONVENTION OF MEMPHIS.—Among the objects contemplated by the Southern convention, which is to assemble at Memphis on the first Monday in June, are the following:

The establishment of a continental depot of cotton, in opposition to Liverpool.

The direct exportation of cotton by the planter, thus doing away with middle men, middle warehouses, middle commissions, middle insurances and all that intermediate medium which eats up our substance, and concentrates our exports at Liverpool.

To build up a Southern importing market, in opposition to New York.

To establish through the railway alliance, more sympathy with the Great West and North West, socially, commercially, and nationally.

To have one or more lines of steamers to Europe.

To induce emigration through Southern ports to pass to the west by a communication always open, expeditious, and cheap; or to settle on a fertile lands.

To stimulate manufactures and general industry. To educate our children at home, to spend our wealth at home.

To aim at commercial and industrial independence.

The Railroad Gauge.

The Lexington Observer and Reporter of Saturday last, contains a well written and truthful article in favor of fixing the gauge of the Lexington and Danville Railroad at five feet. This article is intended as a reply to some one who, over the signature of a "Friend of Railroads," endeavored to prove that the 4 ft. 8 1/2 inch gauge was preferable. We have only tools for the closing part of "Fayette's" communication, together with the accompanying letter from an able and experienced Engineer. The arguments used, are enough, in all conscience, to prove to any who will think properly of the matter, that the 5 foot gauge is the gauge, for our road, and that nothing but a grasping self-interest could have actuated those who have opposed its adoption. We ask that the Stockholders of the Lexington and Danville Railroad will carefully read what here follows:

"Finally, our 'Friend of Railroads' closes by an appeal to the jealousy of Danville and asks her, if she will surrender the advantages of the three connections of Louisville, Maysville and the Big Sandy road for the single connection of Covington? We answer, no.—She will make her own road south without any obstruction, and such will be the importance of its connections, that not only Covington, but Maysville, and even the Big Sandy road will also make their five feet, (as a 'Friend of Railroads' argues, that a transhipment away off the State line is a small matter,) so that Danville will have three important connections, besides securing the Nashville and Memphis connection, and a's have the connection with the Lexington and Louisville road, free of any charge for transhipment upon the very principle laid down by our 'Friend of Railroads.'—Where he speaks with direct reference to this very point, he says: 'Can any one doubt that the roads of uniform gauge do business at one price, that those of broken gauges will not come as low?' So that Danville has everything to gain and nothing to lose, by adhering to the southern gauge.

"In conclusion, as the decree has gone forth from those gentlemen, accustomed to do the thinking of this country, and who are determined to protect their interests at all hazards, even to putting in officers that will carry out their policy, which is considered so necessary to protect their investments in the Frankfort road, (as the late resignation of one of its officers with the flattering resolutions of great ability, &c., clearly indicate, if they succeed in this matter,) who is to be the future President of the Danville road?

The present officers of the Danville road think, that in view of the thankless trouble and inconvenience which they have suffered in bringing forward this road, that they ought to have a fair expression of the stockholders of this road in reference to this vexed question, and propose as a fair means of obtaining the same, to destroy the present papers that have been obtained of the proxies of stock for the different gauges, and let some one person for each county, be mutually agreed on to obtain the signatures of the stockholders to the narrow or wide gauge as they may be inclined, without comment on either side. For fair play is all that ought to be desired in a public matter of this kind.

"I will only add, for those who desire information on this subject of gauge, that I herewith submit a copy of a letter from an eminent Engineer of great experience, (who does not of course, give this information on a cold hand,) in reference to the importance of the southern gauge for the Danville road, but as he is at present absent from the State on business, I do not feel at liberty to give his name at present, but it will be forthcoming in due time. Hear him:

"FAYETTE."

In answer to your request to furnish the grounds upon which the advocates of the wide gauge claim for it the preference over the narrow, I beg leave to say, that you are probably aware, that the narrow gauge was not originally adopted from any supposed advantages, or after an elaborate enquiry into the merits of the question in its several bearings; but it happened to be the width of the coal wagons used in and around New Castle, England, at the time of the first introduction of the railroad for that trade, when the power employed was, of course, horses; and as the system extended over the country and practically was brought to be applied to other uses than the transportation of coal, until finally the improvements in machinery showed the applicability of steam, as the moving power. The construction of the machines used were of course made to conform to the existing width of road. The transportation of passengers at high speed, in fact at any speed at all, was long (in the comparatively short history of railroads) subsequent to the introduction of steam as a moving power on roads.

Upon the introduction of railroads into this country, the width of track used in England was very naturally used as a feature. It was found, however, that at the high speed desirable for passenger traffic, there was a certain degree of unsteadiness in the engine, arising from its height and the narrow base on the rails, which not only proved injurious in its effects upon both the machinery and road, but was attended with danger to the passengers, arising from the tendency of the engine to leave the track by reason of the oscillations occasioned by the rapid speed now introduced, the center of gravity of the engine being necessarily high, and the stability of the machine, in consequence lessened. In order to diminish this dangerous oscillation, it was proposed so to arrange the machinery on the sides, as to permit the boiler (which was the great weight) to be lowered, thus making the engine steadier on the track; but an additional evil was continually being made on the capacity of the boiler, to provide steam to keep up the increasing velocity, and as any increase in the diameter of the boiler to confer this capacity, would be attended with the evil of raising the center of gravity, and thus again diminishing the stability, the boiler was instead increased in length; but it was soon found that there was a limit to increased dimension in this direction, and the demand for increased power or steam capacity continuing, the only remedy was to increase the diameter of the boiler, and by adding to the distance between the rails, afford room to lower it in the frame. It had been found, also, that the new machinery introduced was cramped for room, (the modern race of locomotives differing widely from their ancestors), and as in such machinery a few inches is a great relief, by widening the space between the rails to five feet, ample accommodation was obtained to suit the new necessities of the machine.

The true width was not arrived at by the first trial, but 7 feet—6 feet—5 feet 6 inches—5 feet 4 inches, and many intermediate widths have been tried and are still in use, the final conclusion being arrived at, that to admit of the most economical disposition of steam room and machinery, five feet between the rails is the most desirable and least admissible width. It must be admitted, however, that some engine builders of eminence maintain that 5 feet 4 inches is the most desirable width, while all will tell you that 4 feet 8 inches does not give the room they need.

The importance attached, in my mind, to your adopting for your road the wider gauge, will not permit me to confine myself to enumerating its mechanical advantages as the sole inducement for you to adopt it, but I must be permitted at least to hint at the collateral advantages growing out of your peculiar position.

The views sketched are all undeniably familiar to your mind, and I shall therefore only briefly refer to them.

Were your road a merely local line, designed solely for the accommodation of the travel from Lexington and Danville, it would matter but little what gauge you adopted; but your true position is as a rival to the Mississippi and Ohio rivers where there is no break of gauge. Cincinnati and will, for a long time to come, be the commercial center of this section of country in spite of every opposition. A large portion of her trade is with New Orleans and the South. In order that your road may be benefited by her commerce, no more obstacles than nature has herself interposed should be thrown in the way of an intimate business connection. We propose to carry the products of the Northwest and North, South. We propose to carry the products of the South, Southwest and Southeast, North. And we propose to carry the products of Kentucky herself, both North and South. We can compete successfully with the river in supplying the interior with the heavy products of the Southern plantations, as well as in foreign luxuries; and return among other articles our cattle and hogs on the hoof.

But all this is measurably dependent on the continuity of road to the Southern points of Charleston, Savannah, Pensacola, Mobile and New Orleans being unbroken, all these cities being connected with the point to which you aim with a 5 feet track.

The Covington and Lexington railroad company, with a wise foresight, seeing their true position, have adopted the same gauge with the Southern roads, but it is now proposed by interested parties, that we, lying between the Northern and Southern road, shall adopt the narrow gauge of the Maysville road, and connect with the latter rather than the Cincinnati road. Is Maysville now, or has she the prospect of becoming, within any definite period, a commercial center greater than Cincinnati, with which our business interests call upon us to connect to the exclusion of the latter?

What has she done for our road, and what will she do? An argument used by them is, 'if the Lexington and Danville railroad be made on the narrow gauge, the Covington and Lexington will be able, even at some extra expense.' It is also so what does it prove? That a break of gauge is no impediment, that an engine should not run over 100 miles before trying? On the contrary, does it not prove that the Covington interest well understood the disadvantage of a break of gauge at Lexington, even though they may not design to run either their engines or cars on your road. But you do not need to be informed, that though an engine should not run over 100 miles per day, and that it is no inconvenience for a passenger to change cars, yet there is a manifest inconvenience and expense attending the transshipment of the hundreds of thousands of live stock which will yearly traverse your road, let it be done by means however inconceivably expeditious. Bales of cotton and hogheads of sugar, &c., &c., will not move without hands, but must be made to change cars, and for what purpose? Not for the benefit of Lexington, who has aided to build your road—for if the Maysville road connection be so valuable, your road taking the same gauge and the Covington doing the same, will sweep its trade through Lexington—but that Cincinnati, who has and will aid your enterprise, must be debarr'd by you from enjoying any facilities of trade not possessed by Maysville, who has not, cannot, and will not raise one dollar in your behalf.

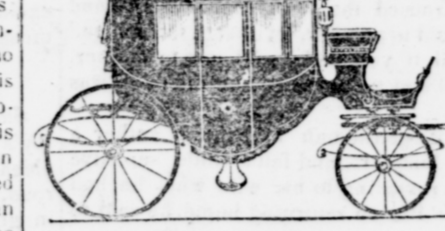

We leave out, for the present, all consideration of the rival lines of road to be built West of us that will be benefited by this break in your track—and also the difficulties thereby thrown in your way for the successful negotiation of your securities at the East, where the question is at present better understood; and regard, for a moment, your interests South, upon the supposition that this proposed break of gauge will not (as it might do) break up at present all chance of connection with the Southern roads through Tennessee. If the gauge be broken at Danville, no advantage can accrue to her; without a corresponding injury to her. If any one derives a profit by this break, the road must pay for it in some shape—that is clear—and for you to build on extension upon which you cannot run your own engines is manifestly too absurd to occupy your attention for a moment. The break would not be at Danville, but be carried to the Tennessee State line. But one of the main points upon which you rely for an economical working of this line to the Chattanooga road, so as to compete successfully with the river, is to throw the working management of the road, when built, into the hands of one company, as is done elsewhere under like circumstances, and which results in a saving of 25 to 30 per cent in the expenses of the road. This gain will be completely defeated by the necessity of keeping up two distinct establishments of engines, cars, &c.; and all the advantages of your peculiarly favorable position, and the location of your road lost, and without an equivalent benefit offered you. The subject admits of discussion in many aspects which will occur to you, and I have only to say, that no consideration of present pecuniary advantage should be permitted to weigh with your company for one instant in deciding upon the question of the gauge. It is barring the very life of the road—its birthright as it were, to entertain such a proposition for a moment.

Respectfully, yours, &c.

FLYING SHIP—GREAT INVENTION.—The Aeronaut was again exhibited by Mr. Porter on Saturday night, at Carusi's saloon. To say this miniature sylph-like vessel, with its gay and airy saloon filled with automation passengers (looking out at the windows), actually elevated in the atmosphere, and paddling its way in any direction by steam power, according to the dictates of its own helm, tend to strengthen the hope that the uniting project of this means of aerial navigation may succeed in bringing it to a practical result. Mr. Porter seems to be sanguine that a machine on this principle can be constructed, capable of making two trips to California and back in the course of a week, carrying two hundred passengers at one hundred dollars a berth, thus realizing a snug profit on the investment. Experiment upon a larger scale will, however, best prove the practical utility of this mode of aerial navigation.

Two Splendid Venns Jacks, 3 LARGE MAMMOTH AND TELEGRAPH.

WILL stand the present season for Jennets, 5 miles west of Danville, near the Lexington and Danville turnpike, at $30 per coat—the money due when the fact is ascertained, or the Jennet traded or sold for himself.

Good fine grass pasture and grain feed furnished to Jennets from a distance on reasonable terms.

D. A. KNOX, Danville, April 8, '53

Those who desire to raise fine horses, can now have a chance. JIM BELL will stand the present season at my farm in Lincoln county, on the Danville and Hustonville turnpike, 3 miles from the latter place, and within sight of Millersville, at the low price of $12 the season or $10 to insure a mare in foal. The season money may be paid in full, or in installments, as the mare is known to be in foal or parted with. The season will end the 10th of July.

It is necessary for me to puff Jim up, as his colts say more for him than I could, if I were to write a month.

W. P. TATE, Lincoln co., April 8, '53

Berthune.

THIS celebrated thoroughbred Stallion will stand the present season at my farm, 8 miles north of Danville, and will serve mares at Six Dollars the season, or will insure a colt for Eight Dollars. Mares with grass pasture at $1 per month.—A Ten Dollar Cup will be given to the best colt of his get.

THE TRIBUNE.

AN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH.

DANVILLE, KY.,
Friday Morning, April 15, 1853.

REV. B. PALMER, the American Newspaper Agent, is the only authorized Agent for this paper in the cities of Philadelphia, New York and Boston, and is daily empowered to take advertisements and a description of the rates required by us. His receipts will be regarded as receipts. His office is—PHILADELPHIA, N. W. corner Third and Chestnut streets; NEW YORK, Tribune Building; Boston, Scollay's Building.

TEMPERANCE ADDRESS.—Rev. Dr. R. J. BRECKINRIDGE will deliver an address on the Temperance Question at the First Presbyterian Church in this place, on Monday evening next. The public are invited to attend.

LOCAL.—Pauze is very scarce in our city at present—so is silver change.

The Town Trustees will issue no more licenses to retail ardent spirits. It is hoped this move will diminish the number of "spirit mediums" in our town.

The youngsters were thrown into a tremendous excitement on Friday last by the entrance into our city of a man seated in a small buggy drawn by a couple of dogs. The owner of this novel team is a cripple, and we believe a professor of phrenology.

The office of Police Judge is about to be made vacant by the resignation of Judge Speed, who has filled the office with honor to himself and credit to the town for a number of years. There are several applicants for the vacancy.

The Board of Trustees on Monday last elected Mr. JOHN STODGHILL, Town Night Watch.

The senate adjourned sine die on Tuesday. It was rumored in Washington that the Cabinet was to be changed and re-constructed before the adjournment, but such was not the case. There is reason to believe that the Cabinet is in a snarl, and that it is a very discordant body, but no change in it has taken place.

The new law in Missouri requires all railroads to be five feet six inches gauge.

FIRE.—We regret to learn that on Monday afternoon last, the commodious dwelling of Rev. H. J. Perry, in Mercer county, was destroyed by fire. The furniture in the house was saved. Mr. P. is a well-known Methodist clergyman, and resided in this place for a number of years. His loss falls very heavily upon him, and we are advised by a letter from a friend that a zealous effort will be made among his neighbors and friends to raise a sufficient sum of money to rebuild his house.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—About half a square on Jefferson street in Louisville was destroyed by fire on Saturday morning last. The fire commenced at three different places, and was doubtless the work of an incendiary. Dr. Gunn, Mr. McGuire and George Adams, are the principal losers.

GREENUP RECORD.—Such is the title of a new paper, neutral in politics, published at Greensburg, Ky. The first number is before us, and we find it exceedingly well printed, well edited, and evincing a determination on the part of its editors to make the Record worthy of patronage. S. P. Drake & Co., publishers. J. Davidson and J. M. Robb, Editors.

MAIL ROBBERY.—Arrest of the Robber.—Col. J. F. Leavy, the mail agent for Kentucky and Tennessee, has been arrested on the charge of robbing the mail between Louisville and Nashville. The money stolen was branded with a private mark, and a portion of it has been recovered from persons to whom it was paid by Col. Leavy. Col. Leavy formerly resided in Lexington, Ky., and has heretofore been regarded as a man of strict integrity.

Since the above was in type we notice in the Louisville Journal of Monday that Leavy has been examined, and held to bail to the sum of $10,000, to the charge at the next term of the U. S. District court of Kentucky, which meets at Frankfort next month. In default of giving bail he was committed.

VICE PRESIDENT KING.—The Hon. Wm. R. King has arrived, as announced by telegraph, at Mobile from Havana, in the steamer Fulton. His health is reported very feeble.

IMMENSE POSSESSIONS.—In the course of his speech on the 15th inst., Mr. Clayton of Delaware stated that we now have one hundred millions of acres of land on which the white man has never trod. He thought that if, in the lapse of time, our present area should be covered, and men shall desire to extend the area of liberty, then we should not stay the advance of progress; but the day should never come when American statesmen could make the declaration that we intend to disregard territory.

RAILROAD MEETING AT LEBANON.—A meeting was held at Lebanon on the 24th inst., to take some action in regard to the proposed construction of a railroad to intersect the Lexington and Danville road at some suitable point, and passing through Harrodsburg, to join the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Hart or Barren counties. Arrangements were made for a survey of the proposed route, and books for subscriptions of stock ordered to be opened at various points.

SOUTHERN LADIES' BOOK.—The April number of this new and elegant periodical is on our table. It contains two illustrations—a portrait of Hon. J. H. Caldwell, and an engraving of the St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans. Its pages are richly stored with contributions from the pens of Southern writers, foremost among whom is the accomplished Lady editor, Mrs. L. Virginia French. Terms, $3 per annum. Address Yeomans & Co., No. 90, Camp st., New Orleans.

The commercial intercourse of this country with the Pacific is growing rapidly. It is said there are from twenty-five to thirty vessels in the port of New York up for California alone, embracing a large number of the most splendidly-built clipper ships. There are also eight fine vessels up for Australia, and all filling at satisfactory rates. Those loading for California are taking in valuable cargoes, consisting chiefly of flour, lumber, provisions, machinery, and assorted goods. To Australia, the chief articles consist of flour, lumber, tobacco, rice, spirits, and assorted merchandise, suitable for that distant market.

OFFICE SEEKING.—The office seeking mania seems to continue unabated.—Washington is still besieged by the hungry locos, and the President and cabinet are worried more than considerably by those.

"Who will not let them go, until an office they bestow."

Well, there's some excuse for all this scrambling for the party spoils. Davis, a fire eating disunionist, has a seat in the Cabinet; Dix, the famous free soiler is sub-treasurer at New York; Campbell, formerly of the Nashville convention, is a Supreme Judge for life; and Crocker, McClelland and a host of other disunionists, secessionists and free soilers are high in favor with the new administration. When such men come in for the highest official appointments, it is to be reasonably expected that the "rag-tag and bone-bail" of the party, all who voted for Pierce, should imagine that by voting for him they did their country a service, and have a right to demand office as their reward.

THE TROPHIES OF VICTORY.—A writer in the National Intelligencer sums up the various offices in the gift of the Departments at Washington, which the Evening Journal proceeds to analyze after this fashion:

Clerkships, 700 about	$ 351,600
Heads of Departments, &c.,	1,250,000
Foreign Envoys, annually,	250,000
Post Office expenses and com.	2,500,000
Mail Contracts,	6,500,000
Custom houses and officials,	2,000,000
Advertising of the Departments,	70,000
Congressional printing,	500,000
Total,	$14,061,600

The Hon James Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, was on Monday last nominated by the President to the Senate as Minister to England. The nomination was confirmed, and it is rumored that he accepts.

A GOOD ORDER.—We see by the reports of the police court of the city of Louisville, that Judge Joyce, a day or two since, instructed the police to arrest all boys parading the streets at a late hour of night, unless they can show good cause for being out. His honor said that if parents could not keep their children at home, he would take care of them.

The New York Courier and Enquirer says, "The new Administration appears to be rapidly getting into those difficulties with its friends which we ventured to predict, must inevitably be the consequence of the want of harmony among its supporters. All was union and harmony, and fraternal affection in the Democratic ranks, so long as they were battling for place against Whig incumbents; but no sooner was victory achieved and the spoils to be divided, and measures to be proclaimed, upon which the administration of affairs is to be based, than old bickerings and heart burnings, and hostilities temporarily suppressed, and differences of opinion upon grave national questions momentarily waived are all revived with unmitigated force and are destined to blight the administration from power in 1856."

FREE NEGROES.—The Virginia House of Delegates have adopted a substitute for the bill to remove free negroes from that State, a resolution appropriating $30,000 annually for colonization purposes.

Dr. Ramsay, in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, highly recommends the ferro-phosphate of lime for consumption and other scrofulous diseases. He thinks it will supersede cod liver oil and all other remedies for these diseases. Dose—10 grains, increased gradually to 15 grains.

THE NEW SILVER COIN.—The New York Tribune thus holds forth on this subject. The particulars of the new Coinage Bill were given in our fourth number: "If anybody knows where there is an American Silver Dollar, we advise him to go and take a long, fond look at it, for he is not likely ever to see another. One dollar bills and gold dollars were pretty hard upon our bright faced old friend before, but this new debasement of the coinage will be the death of him. Hereafter, twenty-one half dollars (of the new coinage) will be worth considerably less than ten whole ones, and with the smaller coins, which must nevertheless be taken for the sum expressed by the die on their face. The mischiefs and evils to which this anomaly must give rise, can hardly be over-estimated."

Several fires have occurred in Lexington and vicinity during the past week. The only one, however, which did much damage, destroyed the farm dwelling of D. A. Sayre, near the city.

The Eastern papers are publishing libelous notices of Hon. Thos. F. Marshall. This mistake has been created by the killing of Gen. Thos. Marshall, recently in Lewis county. The real Simon-pure "Tom Marshall" is yet alive, and is a candidate for the Legislature in Woodford county.

Rhode Island has adopted the Maine liquor law by a majority of 950.

A mail which left Cincinnati on the 26th ult., for New York and other points, has been stolen or mysteriously delayed. It contained about $200,000 in drafts from Cincinnati Merchants and bankers.

A dispatch from Washington, of the 5th, says: "The Senate appointed a committee, to wait upon the President, who informed the Senate that he had no other communications to make, whereupon they resolved that the President pro tem. adjourn the Senate finally on Monday at 10 o'clock."

It is rumored that Gen. Arista has received his passport from the Mexican Government to the United States.

CUBA.—The 600,000 inhabitants of that island pay annually about $25,000, 000 of imposts. Each Cuban is obliged to contribute about $45 yearly for the support of the Spanish crown.

Planting Potatoes.—At a discussion of the Farmers' Club in Rhode Island, on the 12th ultimo, it was maintained that potatoes should not be cut for seed, that their good qualities were retained by planting them whole.

The Washington Union says the New York Express, omits to state, in reporting the Post Master appointments, that "removals" have been made to create the vacancies. The official organ shrinks probably from reporting the broad swath that the scythe of proscription is making.

THE LEMMON SLAVE CASE.—An effort is being made in the New York Legislature by D. B. Taylor, to provide against such slave cases as that of Lemmon. He desires to have such property recognized and protected when in transitu through New York.

HURRAH FOR TEXAS.—Gen. Alvaros, says the Victoria Advocate, the military commandant at Matamoros, puts on airs occasionally, and issues manifestoes, creating death and destruction to his neighbors of Brownsville, if they do not keep quiet. Recently some shots were fired from the American side of the Rio Grande towards his sentinels. On learning the fact, Alvaros addressed a pompous note to Justice McLean, of Brownsville, threatening that if his shots were repeated he would bombard the town.

The following is Judge McLean's reply: BROWNVILLE, Jan. 11, 1853.

Dear General—We received your appreciated note of this date.

E. L. MCLEAN,
Justice of the Peace, Cameron co., Texas.

The N. Y. Courier & Enquirer speaks doubtfully of the peace intentions of the Emperor of the French. "Though too wary to attempt an invasion of England just now, it thinks it quite probable that his ambition by and bye may lead to seek a field on this side of the Atlantic.—In a war with the United States or Mexico, the Courier thinks France would receive the countenance of the European powers generally—not even excepting England. Hence it would have the Pierce administration keep a watchful eye on Louis Napoleon, and send to Paris a Minister Plenipotentiary only of first rate ability. And to this end the Courier nominates Gen. Dix, or Francis B. Cutting, Esq."

MAPLE SUGAR.—At a late meeting of the Farmer's Club of New York, an article was read on the subject of maple sugar and as of its great importance as one of the products of this country. By the late census it appears that the production of maple sugar in this country in 1850 was within a small fraction of thirty four millions of pounds. An orchard of maple trees has been found almost equal, acre for acre, with the sugar cane in producing sugar and molasses.

For the Kentucky Tribune.
MESSRS. EDITORS:
I have been frequently asked within the last few days if the Democratic party did not intend to run a candidate for the Legislature this year, as there are two Whigs running, and I have been further asked if I did not intend to run in the event that both the candidates continued to run on. I will say in reference to the last question, I cannot and will not under any state of case be a candidate for the Legislature this year.

I cannot say what is the intention of the Democratic party in regard to running a man, but I would say, that so far as I have heard an expression upon the subject, a large majority of our party is opposed to running a candidate. They are divided upon Mr. Lee and Mr. Anderson, some are for one and some for the other, and I think they desire to see the great question of Temperance, of license and Anti-license tested in this county, and I do not believe there will be any Democratic candidate this year.

I have deemed it due to myself to say this much, as I have been suspected of holding back from taking any part in this canvass. Because I intend to run myself. My opinions upon the Temperance question are too well known to require me to repeat them here, and although I may say but little in the canvass, yet I am no less the advocate of Temperance than in days that are gone by. I repeat it again, I will not be a candidate this year for the Legislature under any state of the case, nor do I believe there will be any Democratic candidate.

M. J. DURHAM,
Danville, Ky., April 14, 1853.

THINGS IN NEW YORK.—General Scott will take up his residence in the city in a few days.

Lawrence Van Kleck, Esq., a custom house officer, fell dead from apoplexy on Saturday. He was 72 years of age.

Mr. Hillier, the new United States Marshall has entered upon his duties.

Mr. Daniel Underhill, Sr., one of the veterans of 1812, was found dead in bed on Friday.

There were 401 deaths in the city last week—of consumption 53; erysipelas 10, scarlet fever 11; small pox 10.

The Clay Festival Association of this city, intend to have a quiet social gathering on the approaching anniversary of the birth day of the deceased statesman.

THINGS IN PHILADELPHIA.—Robert Ewing, Esq., has declined the tender of the office of treasurer of United States mint, and assistant treasurer of the United States.

There were 214 deaths in the city last week, of consumption 32; scarlet fever 11; inflammation of the lungs 15; convulsions 12.

An institution for the education of idiots is about to be established in the city and one branch of the Legislature has passed a bill appropriating 30,000 for its endowment.

THE WOLVES.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Express writes as follows:

"The wolves, here, howl screechingly, as the carcasses of slain Whigs disappear or lessen in number. Poor Guthrie, of Ky., (Secretary of the Treasury,) is howled at, yelped at, barked at, gnashed at, all but devoured. There is not even a bone of a Whig apiece for the number left."

The Cabinet does its best to satisfy these wolves, but struggles in vain.

The President has made a Mexican U. S. Attorney in Vermont, and Ex-Member here is made U. S. Attorney in California.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

DAGUERRETYPE.—Mr. L. C. DUNCAN has taken the rooms lately occupied by Mr. Baldrige, and is prepared to finish superior Daguerreotypes to all who desire them. Mr. D. is a good artist, and thoroughly understands his business.—His specimens cannot fail to recommend him. See advertisement.

Those of our merchants who may find it necessary to replenish their stocks of Dry Goods during the season, will find that they can purchase of J. W. Cochran & Co., at Lexington, on as favorable terms as they can in Louisville. They possess the same facilities to sell cheap as do the dealers of Louisville, and import largely for the purpose of filling wholesale orders. Country merchants would do well to give them a call before going farther. See advertisement.

New Goods.—The store-room of Mr. Wm. Lucas has been altered and refitted in beautiful style, and now presents an exceedingly handsome appearance. And this is not all, for Mr. L. has it well filled with new and elegant goods of every description. See advertisement.

New Goods.—Jas. M. Nichols and G. A. Armstrong requests us to say to the public, that their houses have actually been so crowded with customers, that they have not had time to prepare advertisements for this weeks paper. They will try and get time by next week, to inform their friends, "and the rest of mankind," that they have received their Spring and Summer Dry Goods.

Christian Hymn-Book.—A good supply of the above Hymn Book, by A. Campbell, will be found at the Book and Drug Store of A. S. McGORRITY. It is the latest stereotyped edition. He has them bound in all styles, and these wishing to purchase will find a constant supply at his store.

DIED.—In this place, on the 5th inst., Mrs. ANN S., wife of JOHN B. ARN, Esq., in the 24th year of her age.

In the place, on the 8th inst., CARROLL BAILEY, infant son of Dr. R. W. and SALLIE J. DUNLAP.

Town Ordinance.
BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Danville, That no license to retail Ardent Spirits shall hereafter be granted to any person, except to Apothecaries.

That on application by an Apothecary for license to retail spirits within the limits of the town of Danville, and the payment into the Treasury of the town of One Dollar, (in addition to such other tax as may be required by law,) the said Apothecary, if licensed, as a direct vote of this Board, with the concurrence of a majority of all the members duly elected, may retail ardent spirits within the limits of said town for medical purposes and the arts only.

Provided, however, that no person having a license from this Board shall be permitted to sell or give ardent spirits or intoxicating drinks to any minor or slave, without the written order of the parent or guardian of such minor or the master of such slave.

3. For a violation of this ordinance, the offender shall be fined in the sum of Fifty Dollars, recoverable by warrant before the Police Judge of said town, or a Justice of the Peace of Boyle county. By order of the Board,
JOHN TOMPKINS, Pres't.

MURAT

WILL stand the present season, at the stable of SAMUEL H. GAZOS, half a mile south of Crab Orchard, Ky., and will be permitted to serve mares at $15 for a foal and a $25 for a Jack colt. Good blue grass pasture will be furnished gratis for Jennets from a distance, and grain fed upon reasonable terms if required. Great care will be taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability should any occur. He will also be permitted to serve a few mares early in the season, at $10 to insure a mare in foal, the money to be paid as soon as the fact is ascertained, or the mare transferred.

HUMOROUS.

DELIVER US.
From all biers, back-bitters, inquisitive people, tell-tales, and hollow-hearted evil doers, deliver us.
From long winded, prosy essays, harangues and hail storms, from high winds of adversity and rich relations, deliver us.
From whimsical wives, pet dogs and fashionable daughters and $100 shawls deliver us.
From other people's babies and their mint sticks, from harangues about smart children deliver us.
From rheumatism and lumbago, quack doctors' pills and pot-stuff, deliver us.
From smoky chimneys, scolding wives and wash days, deliver us.
From Amateur poets and love sonnets, dancing masters and fish-hooks deliver us.
From politics in religion and religion in politics, deliver us.

INFALLIBLE REMEDIES.—We have no faith in quack medicines, but think it always best, when sick, to apply to a regular physician. There are, however, some simple remedies, for certain disorders which we can recommend as infallible.
For sea-sickness—stay at home.
For drunkenness—drink cold water.
For accidents—keep out of danger.
For fear of Sheriff—pay your debts.
To be happy—be honest.
To please all—mind your own business.
To make money—advertise.
To have a good conscience—keep the commandments.
To do right—take a good newspaper.
To prevent stammering—speak the truth.
To sleep well—be industrious.
To have your memory blessed—PAY THE PRINTER.

One of the laziest men in this country resides in Iowa. As a sample of his inertia, we would mention that the only reason he don't get married is too lazy to "stand up." Whenever he feels like going, he employs a little boy to pull his mouth open.

There is one advantage in being old, and that is you can "loaf" around the house without being charged with laziness. We look forward to a good deal of enjoyment after we have reached eighty.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.—The following question was propounded by an anonymous Scotch maiden, many years ago, but to our knowledge has never been answered:
"If a body meet a body coming thro' the rye, If a body kiss a body should a body cry?"
So far as we are informed in such matters, we do not hesitate to express our opinion that under the circumstances there is not the slightest occasion for tears.

Town Ordinance.
BE IT ORDAINED, by the Board of Trustees of the Town of Danville—that hereafter it shall be unlawful for any Hog, Sheep or Pig to run at large within the limits of the town of Danville; that if such be found hereafter running at large, it shall be the duty of the Marshal to take up the same and advertise them by posting on the Court House door, the number, color, marks, &c., on them for five days, (which is allowed said Marshal), to give the remainder over to the Treasurer to be kept by him until the original owner or owners appear for the same. But if the owner should apply for the hog or hogs before the day of sale, the Marshal shall make him pay all the costs of keeping and 25 cents on each head, deliver the same over to him. The Marshal shall have a lien on all hogs taken up by him for all costs and expenses.

JAMES B. WHITE, M.D.,
Late of Columbia, Ky., and now of GRAP Orchard,
Is a Graduate of Transylvania University, and has practiced his profession for about twenty years amongst us, and in some of our families, with success. We consider him a scientific, safe and good Physician and Surgeon, kind and attentive to his patients, and perfectly certain to win and maintain their confidence. For several years past he has been the proprietor of a Hydro-pathic System with the old mode established practice, where it seemed proper to do so. His success has been good, under either mode of treatment, or when combining them. We regard him as a safe and able man, in the practice of his profession, and cheerfully recommend him to those in want of a good Physician or Surgeon.
